It merely specifies that when ar f three-fourths of the states adopt it as an amendment, then Congress shall determine the extent of the franchise and representation in Congress. There is no thought whatever that this will mean the Dis trict's city government will be turned over to the people who liv There's also little argument in Congress, as far as I can find, that the District should have more than a non-voting delegate in the House, as Hawaii, Alaska, the Philippines and Puerto Rico are now repre sented.

But those are matters which would be left up to Congress, the Sumners-Capper act should b come a part of the Constitution. It's hard to see either why the voters of the nation would refuse to place in Congress, where it belongs, this responsibility for giving residents of the national capital some sort of say-so about how they are governed, and equal rights with the rest of the nation in voting for president and vice president. The difficulty that the proposed amendment probably will have, say its backers, is in lack of interongs to the nation. Chairman Hat
